

Kenneth Yeo Chye Whatt

Kenneth is a principal radiographer with 33 years of experience in Singapore General Hospital and is the current Deputy Assistant Manager for Vascular Interventional Radiology team in SGH. He has involvement in The Radiographer Abnormality Detection System programme in SGH and pioneered the intra-operative CT scan system in SGH major OT. He is a part of SGH Institute for Medical Simulation and Education (IMSE) pool of simulation trainers and lead simulation trainer for the in-situ Code Blue simulations conducted in the x-ray department. He has experience in many non-routine radiographic imaging like Forensic radiography, Prison radiography and Radiography of heritage artefacts. He presented on numerous topics at conferences local and international including the use of x-ray imaging for heritage artefact conservation at both the Asian Civilisation Museum in the Faculty of Science at National University of Singapore.